Reduced investor protection for professional clients

Being treated as a professional client means you waive some of your investor protection. The page "Information about client classification" on dnb.no details how a client's classification determines the level of investor protection.

Professional clients are normally expected to have sufficient knowledge to understand the risk related to the invest ment. Thus, for clients classified as professional clients, DNB Markets will not perform the same assessment of their knowledge or experience as it does for non-professional clients. DNB Markets does not have the same duty to advise against a transaction for professional clients as it does for retail clients. This means that professional clients must – more so than retail clients – obtain for themselves the information they regard as necessary prior to trading in financial instruments.

In relation to order execution, DNB Markets will presume the client has the basic knowledge and experience about the relevant financial instruments. If the client is considering a transaction that requires a higher level of knowledge and experience than they have, the client must contact DNB Markets and request more information.

In relation to investment advice, DNB Markets will consider the client's investment goals, risk willingness, financial situation and ability to bear losses. No suitability report will be sent to the client in relation to the investment advice given (contrary to what happens for retail clients).

Confirmation

- I hereby confirm I meet the criteria set out above for being treated as a professional client.
- I hereby confirm I have sufficient knowledge and experience about the relevant financial instruments.
- I hereby confirm that I have read information about client classification on dnb.no and I am aware that being classified as a professional client represents a lower level of investor protection.
